Professional Development Committee Responsibilities

The Professional Development Committee (PDC) is responsible for assessing and offering funding recommendations concerning endeavors that enhance the professional capabilities of faculty members within the realms of teaching and scholarly research. It is important to note that the PDC's role is distinct from the processing of documentation and funding accounts, as these administrative tasks fall outside the purview of the committee's mandate.

Membership

Every academic department within Winston-Salem State University must select a full-time faculty member and alternate, both of whom will be designated to serve on the PDC. The Chair and/or Vice Chair of the Faculty Senate, the Provost, and other senior academic administrators may participate as ex-officio members. Furthermore, the committee members are responsible for electing the members of the PDC executive board.

Membership Eligibility

To qualify for election to the PDC, an individual must satisfy the following criteria:

- 1-Hold an academic rank within the department from which they are being elected.
- 2-Be a full-time voting member of the General Faculty, with a significant portion of their duties involving classroom teaching.
- 3-Not concurrently hold the dean, associate dean, or department chairperson positions. Additionally, an individual serving as a director may be considered eligible only if they are not overseeing a center and their teaching responsibilities account for 50% or more of their overall duties.
- 4- The committee chair must be elected from a pool of tenured faculty candidates. Subcommittee chairs, the executive secretary, and the co-chair can be tenured or tenure-track.

Member Responsibilities

- 1-The PDC convenes on the fourth Tuesday of each academic month, except for official university breaks (summer, spring, fall, and winter) and UNC system calendar holidays.
- 2-All members are expected to participate in the monthly general PDC meeting. If a member cannot attend, their department's alternate representative should be present in their stead.
- 3- All members except those on the executive committee must be assigned to a subcommittee.
- 4-When their subcommittee chair assigns a member a review duty, they must complete their reviews in alignment with the subcommittee criteria. Within two weeks, they must submit their recommendations for either approval or denial to their subcommittee chair.
- 5-Members bear the responsibility of training their respective alternates. Furthermore, they must keep their alternate representative informed about the latest developments within the PDC.

6-It is paramount that delegates promptly respond to emails and requests for application reviews, ensuring the committee's effective operation. In cases where a delegate does not provide the required response, as outlined in the handbook, the PDC chair reserves the right to consider appointing the alternate as a replacement or to request the department chair to designate a new delegate. Delegates are expected to acknowledge receipt of the review request from the Subcommittee chair within two days. Failure will prompt the Subcommittee Chair to designate the task to the alternate. The alternate must complete the application review within one week, adhering to the rubric provided.

Term of appointment

1-The term of a PDC committee member is two years. A member is eligible for one reappointment or reelection. After completing this term, the member must wait for a period of two years before becoming qualified to serve again.

2-PDC committee members whose appointment concludes at the end of the academic year must inform the PDC executive committee of their detachment. A new PDC committee member from the former delegate department needs to be appointed alongside their alternate.

3-The departing departmental representative should provide training for new departmental alternates to the PDC before the conclusion of their academic year term. Each alternate is expected to attend at least one PDC meeting during their two-year alternate period.

4-A comprehensive list of all active PDC members, including Chair, Co-Chair, Secretary, and Subcommittee Chairs, must be available to all members and updated by the executive committee at the beginning of each academic year.

Election of the Executive Committee and Subcommittee Chairs

1-During the March PDC meeting, both outgoing and incoming PDC members, along with present alternates, are invited to propose candidates' names for the new PDC Chair, Co-Chair, Executive Secretary, and Subcommittee Chairs of the Travel, Research, and Colloquium.

2-Nominees have the option to withdraw their names from consideration voluntarily. A designated period and method for submitting nominations should be established to manage the nomination process effectively.

3-Outgoing and incoming PDC committee members will conduct a clear and defined voting process for each nominated Executive Committee position. The method of voting, whether through a ballot or another procedure, will be determined in advance to ensure transparency and fairness. Candidates receiving the most plurality votes for each position will assume those roles at the commencement of the new academic year. A new election will occur between the two candidates in case of a tie until one candidate gets the simple majority (50% +1) of votes.

4-During April, the outgoing PDC Executive Committee will be responsible for providing comprehensive training to the incoming PDC Executive Committee. The training of new members includes familiarizing new members with the PDC meeting schedule and expectations to ensure consistent attendance; defining the expectations for participation in PDC meetings and handling absence scenarios; educating new members about their role in training and keeping their alternate representatives informed and training new members in timely communication and responding to review requests effectively. The outgoing PDC Executive Committee will continue to serve in an advisory ex-officio capacity until the September meeting.

5-. The ex-officio duties of the outgoing committee are to provide comprehensive training to the incoming committee members, as described in the initial passage, to familiarize them with meeting schedules, expectations, participation guidelines, and communication protocols; provide advice and guidance to the incoming PDC Executive Committee members based on their experience and institutional knowledge; assist in the smooth transition of responsibilities, procedures, and projects from the outgoing committee to the incoming committee; share insights, historical context, and lessons learned from their tenure to help the new committee make informed decisions and help new members understand the importance of consistent attendance at PDC meetings and provide strategies for handling absence scenarios.

Handbook and Sub-committee Criteria Alterations

In any proposed amendment to the Handbook or sub-committee evaluation guidelines, approval requires a majority vote from the committee members, defined as more than half of the total votes cast. Voting may occur in person during committee meetings or through a designated online platform, with the mode determined by the committee chair.

The committee chair sets a clear deadline for members to vote on proposed alterations. This deadline must be communicated well in advance, allowing ample time for thorough review by all members.

If a clear majority has yet to be reached by the presented deadline, the executive committee and sub-committee chairs will gather to assess the votes received. Based on the votes cast by the deadline, the executive committee and sub-committee chairs will decide on the proposed alteration, which will be considered valid and binding for implementation.

Communication of decisions is a critical aspect of this policy. Decisions made by the committee, or the executive committee will be promptly communicated to all members, ensuring transparency and informing everyone about the vote's outcome. Additionally, all voting results and decisions will be documented and maintained for future reference.

This voting policy may be subject to periodic review and revision by the committee to ensure its ongoing effectiveness and alignment with the committee's evolving needs.
